

When Allergies Become a Problem

the allergic threshold

Pharmacia & Upjohn Diagnostic Diagnostic Clinical Information: The Value of Allergen Identification. Kalamazoo, Mich: Pharmacia & Upjohn Company, 1998. Publication 98006.01.

Statistics say 54.6% of Americans are allergic to 1 or 2 items, but they may never be severe enough to cause symptoms. Add a third trigger, like a cat for example, and the patient has symptoms. Without an allergy test, how can you identify what you are allergic to and what you can avoid?

Available exclusively at

